Poderi Colla 2010 Dardi le Rose BUSSIA BAROLO

95 Points

Multifaceted aromas of ripe plum, bright red berry, leather and underbrush jump from the glass. The intense palate delivers crushed red cherry alongside notes of black pepper; clove, sage, mint, licorice and balsamic notes. It has great energy thanks to brisk acidity and decisive tannins. Drink 2020-2040.

Poderi Colla 2011 BARBARESCO RONCAGLIE

93 Cellar Selection

This opens with a classic Nebbiolo fragrance of red rose, leather, perfumed wild berries, forest floor and a hint of menthol. On the palate, white pepper, mint, thyme and eucalyptus notes add depth to the mouthwatering wild cherry and ripe raspberry flavors. It's still young, with a firm, tannic backbone balanced with just enough fresh acidity. Drink 2018-2026.

Poderi Colla 2010 BAROLO BUSSIA

Elegant and powerful at once, this wine offers complete saturation of flavor while holding to a tight structure. Tar and truffle scents buoy a mass of graciously ripe fruit, floral, tense and rich. The wine's intensely tannic grip suggests aging this for ten years or more, though the cool richness of fruit will make it hard to resist opening it along the way.

Poderi Colla 2011 BARBARESCO RONCAGLIE

The majority of Poderi Colla's nebbiolo vines in Tenuta Roncaglia were planted in 1969 and 1980, facing south and west. They produced an elegant 2011, transparent in its ruby color, juicy in its sunny richness, fruity in its chanterelle-like depths. The tannins add some bitterness and austerity to gird all the fragrant, foresty notes. This should develop well over the next several years.

Poderi Colla 2012 BARBARESCO RONCAGLIE 90 Points

Enticing aromas of perfumed berry, rose petal, scorched earth and spice lead the nose. On the palate, bracing tannins and bright acidity support crunchy strawberry, black cherry, clove and licorice. This is still all wound up and needs time to open.

93 POINTS

The 2011 Dardi Le Rose Barolo is very impressive as it opens with fresh aromas of strawberries and cherries woven together with licorice, mint and dried floral which all come together with wonderful harmony. On the palate this is beautifully structured around fine, polished tannins and demonstrates excellent balance and precision. It remains focused while showing excellent length on the refined finish. Overall a gorgeous Barolo that should continue to show well and evolve for years to come. (Best 2016-2029)

Really opening now with dried berry, leather and spice. Hints of meat too. Full-bodied, round and silky. A beauty. Drink now but lots in the future.

Extremely racy and aromatic with flowers and subtle blueberry. Full body, fine tannins, wonderful length. You see the class here. Tight now. Give it three to four years to open. Better in 2018.

A pretty red with hints of almond, spice and stone. Some prune too. Full body, firm tannins and a fresh and clean finish. Tight now. Needs two or three years to soften.

Poderi Colla 2012 BARBARESCO RONCAGLIE

92 Points

Roncaglie is one of the best sites on the hill running from Roccalini to Treiso, and Colla's Barbaresco benefits from some very old vines (many planted in 1970 and 1980). Fleshy and approachable, but with an underlying austerity that will help it keep. Drink 2017-2030

Lean and sinewy, with wild juniper, rosemary and eucalyptus notes offsetting the cherry and floral flavors. Shows grip and balance, leading to a long, resonant finish. Best from 2019 through 2033.

Tobacco, orange peel, dried cherry, sage and mint are some of the signatures that emerge from Colla's 2012 Barbaresco Roncaglie. Open-knit and expressive, the 2012 offers good depth and plenty of nuance, but it is already wuite forward, which leads me to believe it will drink best within the next few years.
